

GAMBLING ENDS IN NEW YORK CITY

Every Dive in City is Said to be Closed.

THEY WILL NOT REOPEN

Paraphernalia of Noted Gamblers Turned Over to District Attorney Jerome, When it Was Declared That all Gambling Houses in the City Had Been Closed.

New York, Jan. 17.—Following the surrender to District Attorney Jerome yesterday of the gambling outfit belonging to Frank Furrell, "Dave" Johnson and Frank Macdougall, it was declared by counsel for the gamblers that Jerome has closed every gambling house in New York City, and that they will remain closed. The instrument which made such effective action possible was disclosed by Lawyer Daniel O'Reilly, representing the gamblers, to the Dowling law, enacted at the request of Jerome when he was trying to induce Jesse Lewiston to testify against Richard Canfield. The law automatically releases any gambler from punishment who gives evidence against himself before the District Attorney, but compels him to give such evidence.

Lawyer O'Reilly said: "There will be no gambling houses in this city. The Dowling act has given the district attorney a weapon which he has used to close effectually every place in the city."

"That they will not reopen is shown by the surrender of all gambling paraphernalia. They cannot afford to buy more every time the district attorney takes a notion to make a raid."

SPARKS' SHOW IN TAMPA.

Put Up a Good Show and Pleased the People.

Sparks' Show pleased two audiences yesterday in this city, and will conclude its engagement today, with afternoon and evening performances.

Mr. Charles Sparks, proprietor of the show, is with it, although just convalescing from a severe attack of malaria, and is giving everything his personal attention. The acts are all new and pleasing and keep the large audiences thoroughly entertained. The acrobatic specialties are far above the ordinary in shows of this size and price. The wire-walking is especially noteworthy. The trained horses, the big elephant and the ferocious lions all contribute their share to the amusement of the patrons.—Tampa Tribune.

Sparks' Shows will exhibit in Gainesville on Saturday, Jan. 21. Two performances, afternoon and evening.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

One-half the stuff you buy does you no good.

Don't carry a lot of keys to private drawers. Burn papers you don't want seen.

A dollar is a large amount to pay for bread, but it is mighty insignificant in a poker game.

When some people haven't any great trouble, they smile as much as to say, How brave I am!

Many a good man fusses a great deal about nothing and makes himself unnecessarily disagreeable.

There is this in being a parent: They get the abuse if their children are bad and no particular credit if they are good.—Aitchison Globe.

Five Thousand Distinct Languages.

Mr. J. Collier is authority for the statement that there are no less than 5,000 distinct languages spoken by mankind. The number of separate dialects is enormous. There are more than sixty distinct vocabularies in Brazil, and in Mexico the Nahu language has been broken up into 700 dialects. There are hundreds in Borneo. The complexities are beyond classification in Australia, and generally the number of dialects decreases with the intellectual culture of the population. If there is an average of fifty dialects to every language we still have the enormous total of 250,000.

Burying the Inn Sign.

In some parts of England when a public house loses its license the signboard is solemnly buried. On the last night it is removed from over the door and "waked" in the bar by the old customers. When the clock points to closing time and the house ceases its career as an inn the signboard is carried out in procession and interred with an appropriate burial service, which ends with watering the grave with a gallon of beer or a bottle of whisky.

OUR TREASURE IN KEATS.

His Poetry of Three Dimensions—Height, Breadth and Solidity.

In reading Keats one is struck with the wealth of his equipment, the solid qualities of his art, his soaring imagination, his rare sense of beauty, his range of emotional response, his rich resources of language, and, not the least noteworthy, his capability of growth in taste. To consider what a poet thus endowed might have given to the world had he lived to the age of Shakespeare or Milton excites the mind almost to pain, so little short of miracle was his actual achievement. We believe there is no evidence that he wrote a line of verse after his twenty-fifth year, and he probably wrote little after his twenty-fourth, and yet what a glorious body of life and inspiration he has left! It is poetry of three dimensions—height, breadth and solidity. And yet, withal, it has arrowlike intensity—a quality of which he himself said, "The excellence of every art is its intensity, capable of making all disagreeables evaporate from their being in close relationship with truth and beauty."

His transcriptions of the classic into modern speech in "Hyperion" and "Lamia," the wonderful music and color of "The Eve of St. Agnes," the deft and eerie handling of ballad themes in "La Belle Dame sans Merci" and "Isabella; or, The Pot of Basil," the overflowing dreaminess of midsummer in the "Ode to a Nightingale," the depth and lyric directness of such lines as "In a Dream Nighted December," and a whole anthology of noble sonnets interpreting life and nature—these are but a moiety of the overflowing stream of his passionate imaginings, for in him the intellectual and the emotional were kindly mixed. In the face of such a record of good work the faults of his earlier manner are not worth consideration.—Century.

The Government's Music.

A certain congressman who takes an interest in musical matters presented a bill advocating a larger appropriation for the care of the music in the Congressional library. He spoke briefly on the subject, and after the session a fellow congressman approached him confidentially.

"I say," he said in a low voice, "I like that bill of yours. But, tell me, what sort of music does the government have over there in the library? Is it a band or just a hand organ?"—Harper's Weekly.

Her Hand.

"Sir," began the timid youth as he entered the office, "I am in search—er—that is, I came to seek your daughter's hand."

"Well, it isn't anywhere in this vicinity," interrupted the stern parent. "She's probably using it as a piano thumper about this time of day."

Boston Wires Resent It.

Angry Patron—Hello, central! What did you cut me off for? Boston Telephone Girl—Because you used a plural noun as the subject of a singular verb. You are not allowed to do that on this line, sir.—Chicago Tribune.

THE COMPASS.

The Belief Was Once Held That It Disclosed Men's Thoughts.

A belief that the mariner's compass disclosed men's thoughts was entertained by a number of ancient Mexican companions and allies of Hernando Cortes. His habit of consulting his compass and chart in his advance through the country and the ease and assurance with which he reached whatever town or village he determined to make for tended to confirm this idea.

In the estimation of the Mexicans the compass was a universal oracle. Accordingly in one of the conspiracies which were set on foot against Cortes by the Aztecs a number of the natives, most likely innocent of what was in contemplation, were earnestly entreating Cortes to have recourse to his infallible guide, the compass, that he might ascertain for their mutual satisfaction that they at least were faithful. Cortes himself records the singular idea held of the powers of the magnetic needle by his Aztec associates and their request in a letter addressed to the Emperor Charles V. Their belief, he adds, was one in which he took care to confirm them.
